I want to add my personal congratulations, along with those I'm sure you have received from others in the Intelligence Community, on your appointment as Director of the Office of Foreign Missions. I believe the Secretary of State has made a wise selection and that your background and experience will have a most favorable impact on the formulation of the policies and procedures of this important new office.

Needless to say, I, as well as the entire Intelligence Community Staff, stand ready to assist you in every way possible in your new position.

Sincerely,
